RUMFORD FALLS, MAINE, NOVEMBER 7, 1907.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

BOOM BROKE AT VIRGINIA SUNDAY NIGHT.

Million Feet of Logs go Down the River. River higher than for Years at this Season.

Washouts and Landslides on the Rangeley Division of the M. C. R. R.

The heavy rain Saturday night caused the Androscoggin River to rise to turbulent heights. There was a larger volume of water at the Falls than has been known at this season since the mills were built.

At one place near South Rumford the water overflowed the highway.

Sunday afternoon the International Paper Company's boom, by the cutting up mill at Virginia, broke and let about a million feet of logs loose. They were caught in Dunton's boom and held until some time in the night, Sunday, when that gave away and the logs went down river. They were caught at the boom at Chisholm and Riley, where preparations had been made for them, in anticipation that the boom here would break. The logs will be used there.

There were but few logs in Mr. Dunton's boom, and those were held, so that Mr. Dunton's loss is confined to a few scattering logs not more than a dozen.

STRIKE IN PAPER MILLS AT MADISON AND MILLINOCKET.

The Associated Press despatches regarding the strike in the mills of the Great Northern Paper Co. are rather brief.

They state that J. T. Carey is president of the Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, and has only 150 men in his organization. The despatch also states that the organization known as Fitzgerald's has a membership of 1200. The statement is that Carey has called the strike and that Fitzgerald is going to prevent its being a success by supplying men to take the places of the men Carey has called out.

In the first place Carey is not president of the P. S. and P. M. W. organization. That is Fitzgerald's organization. In the second place there cannot be such a big difference in the membership of the two unions. The fair presumption is that the Paper Makers and Pulp Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers are represented by Carey have a larger membership than the younger or succeeding Fitzgerald organization. The additional statement that Fitzgerald is going to supply men to take the places of the strikers is not credited here.

The demands are for an increase of 25 cents per day for the paper machine tenders, according to the despatches.

The only thing that is correct in the free reports, is the bare fact that a strike has occurred in the mills at Madison and Millinocket.

A member of the P. S. and P. M. W. Union was seen in reference to the strike and he gives it as his opinion that the move that Carey has made is all wrong. He says that the paper machine tenders in the Great Northern Mill get good wages and the necessity for a strike does not exist. His opinion is that Carey has called this strike as a vain endeavor to stem the rising current against the Paper Maker's Union. He does not deny that the Fitzgerald organization will help all the places of the strikers. "Why does Carey go to a mill where men are getting good pay at reasonable hours and stir up trouble when there are mills in the west that are putting it all over the men? $3.75 a day is good pay for a working man. There are many college graduates that would be glad to get as much. There ought to exist harmony between the two organizations and I do not know why it does not, but for some reason the leaders do not budge."

Carey's following in the mills where the strike is on is smaller than Fitzgerald's, but is larger than the press dispatches stated. About 500 I think. These are some of the things said to the CITIZEN man during the interview.

In an interview with a paper maker the statement was made that the effect that Fitzgerald's men would fill the places of the men that are locked out, was regarded as correct. According to this man's views the deal was all made between the Fitzgerald crowd and the Paper Co., before the lock out.

GRAFT WILL STOP WHEN YOU STOP

Blaming the Politicians for the Wrongs your Negligence is the Cause of.

The Kingdom of God Needed in the Industrial World as Well as in the Homes and in the Hearts of Men.

At the Methodist church Sunday the pastor, Rev. G. A. Martin preached a sermon that came from the heart and must have impressed some of his congregation with the seriousness of the speaker's purpose, and inspired them with some measure of his zeal.

He took for his text the line in Matthew's Gospel "Thy kingdom come" 6 Ch. 10 vs.

Mr. Martin said in part. "This is a prayer within a prayer. We are to consider this morning what God's kingdom is how it is to be brought in and how we are to help bring it in. God's Kingdom is not of this world. It is not a kingdom like Charlemagne's or Napoleon's. The kingdom of heaven and of God is in the hearts of men, in our lives. Jesus used differing and seemingly conflicting terms to define the kingdom, but they all meant the same thing to him. There was no confusion in his mind.

He looked upon all men as possible members of His Kingdom. The kingdom that he spoke of was to cover all the earth as the waters of the sea cover the land. The Kingdom of God is the light within the soul.

Some come into the kingdom as immigrants come into the country. It is new and they must learn the ways of it. There are others who have no remembrance of the time they were not in the kingdom. From childhood they have been under the Christian influence. So it is that all are members although not all in the same way.

Now we understand what God's Kingdom is and what its principles are.

Where is the kingdom to come? In the human heart. In the early days of discovery such men as Columbus and Cabot sought and looked for the enlargement of the kingdom of their sovereigns. The same idea dominated the early Christians and before the church was two years old the story of Jesus was told everywhere. The story of that wonderful life and the kingdom to be in every soul.

Where is the kingdom to come? It is to come in human society. The establishment of this kingdom is practical work. It is to be set up in the home. The ideal home is the Christian one.

The parent's duty is to bring up the children under such home influences. In such homes there are no drunkards. There is always fuel in the cellar, and good food in the pantry. So it is important that we set up God's Kingdom in the home. It is also of the utmost importance that we set up God's Kingdom in the educational institutions of the country. By this I do not mean that we shall set up a church in these places, but God and his Kingdom which is more than any church. Teachers in these institutions should have open minds and a belief in immortality. The shabbiest kind of knowledge is that which deals only with what we can see. Unless we know the laws of God it is of no avail to know the laws that science has discovered.

Where is the kingdom to come? In the industrial world. Is a man's duty performed when he has given eight hours work to his employer? Is the employer's duty discharged in full when he has paid for his day's work? Are there no other and mutual duties these men know each other?

They tell me there is antipathy between these two classes. Why? Because neither has taken it as a serious matter that the Kingdom of God is required in the industrial world.

As they put the Kingdom of God in the industrial world the principles of Christ will become operative.

Where shall it come? In the civic life. There are men that are good and men that are good for nothing. We need to discriminate between them and also between parties.

A party may fail in State affairs and succeed in National affairs. The Kingdom of God comes where every man is interested in the civic affairs. The safety of our civic life is not dependent upon party but upon you and you and you. We should not blame politicians for everything. When every citizen understands that it is his duty to look after things then we will have better men in office and great will cease. The Kingdom of God is larger

DIXFIELD ITEMS.

The Happenings of the Week as gathered by the Citizen Reporter.

Mr. J. P. Edmunds and Mr. and Mrs. Osear Trask were in Roxbury, Mass., Thursday of last week to attend the birthday reception given their mother, Mrs. Harriet Edmunds formerly of this place. Mrs. Edmunds was born in Dixfield Oct. 31, 1817, making this her 90th anniversary, and has always resided in this vicinity until about eight years ago, when she went to live with her daughter in Roxbury. This event was a very enjoyable occasion to her. Time has dealt kindly with her, leaving her in complete possession of her faculties. The five children living were present, Mr. Joseph Edmunds, Mrs. Jane Trask of Dixfield, Mrs. Sarah Lake, Mrs. Abbie Reynolds, and Mrs. Lucy Brown of Roxbury, Mass., besides several grandchildren present there were her three sisters, all well preserved for their years. Mrs. Azubah Griffith, 80 years old residing in Roxbury, Mass., Mrs. Hannah Whitten, 74 years old of Worcester and Mrs. Mary Bacon, 72 years old of Framingham, Mass. There were nearly one hundred present, representing nearly every State in New England. Many letters of congratulations were received from relatives and friends. Mrs. Edmunds is a direct descendant of Gov. Eustis, and the Buckminsters on her mother's side and of Sir John Stockbridge who settled in this country, on the paternal side. Mrs. Edmund's grandfather, John Stockbridge was a lieutenant in the war of revolution, her grandfather Eustis died from a fever in the same war. Mrs. Edmunds received many gifts of flowers and other tokens. Among her most valued possessions are a copy of the Stockbridge coat of arms, and a cup used by her grandmother, said to be 200 years old. The reception was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Lake, 45 Alpine street, Roxbury, Mass.

The remains of Walter Jackson, who died at Portsmouth, N. H., last Friday, were brought here for burial. The service was held at the Masonic Banquet Hall, Sunday p. m. at 1 o'clock, Rev. E. W. Webber of Rumford Falls, officiating. Mr. Jackson was the son of John and Florentine (Griffith) Jackson formerly of this place. Mrs. Julia Newcomb of Boston, a sister of the deceased accompanied the remains here and remained for a few days being the guest of Mrs. Wm. M. Kidder.

The service at the Universalist church last Sunday p. m. conducted by Rev. E. W. Webber of Rumford Falls was well attended. The discourse was of much interest to the hearers. Mrs. Winifred Staples Smith was present, and delighted the audience with her sweet tones of music.

Miss Cora Howe is in Boston for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Edwards of Auburn, were in town over Sunday. Mr. Edwards conducted the services at the P. B. church both a. m. and evening and also in Peru in the p. m. The services were well attended and much enjoyed. His subject in the forenoon was "Appreciation and gratitude." Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were entertained at the Dixfield House while in town, by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice McIntire.

Mrs. Sarah J. Martin has been quite ill with a cold.

Among those who registered at the Dixfield House this week were the Harry La Marr Co., who played the three act comedy "Mrs. Partington of Cobb's Corners" at Tuscan Opera Hall, Monday evening to a full and appreciative audience. ANDOVER

The Happenings of the week as Told by Our Correspondent

Miss Annie Akers who has been quite ill at Mount Vernon, Me., where she was teaching school has returned to her home and is rapidly recovering. The recent heavy rains together with the four inches of snow on the mountains caused a heavy freshet in this locality Sunday morning. The intervals of the Ellis River were flooded and the roads quite badly gulfed in a way not known for twenty years. Many bridges on the logging roads were carried away causing quite a loss to logging operations, but none of the town bridges were damaged to any extent.

Mrs. Owen Lovejoy, who has been visiting in Lynn, Mass., came to Robert Hewey's last week.

P. P. Small is confined to the house with rheumatism.

Mrs. C. A. Rand is at Portland for a few weeks.

Helen Kimball has returned from So. Paris.

James Newton has moved into the house owned by J. Lyman Ripley on Main St.

Miss Susie Ferris of Errol, N. H., is at Mrs. S. E. Clark's doing housework.

The Halloween Masquerade given Oct. 30 by the Junior Class A. H. S. was a very pleasant social event and netted them a nice sum of money.

Mrs. R. A. Grover has gone to Auburn to visit her sister, Mrs. Wm. Allen, who is ill.

Bert Rand has purchased a 25 h. p. gasoline engine and machinery for saving lumber which he will place on his lot on Main street.

A Hard Debt To Pay.
"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equalled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by Chas. E. Fernald, H. J. Reynolds, Ridlonville; Nathan Reynolds, Canton; J. P. Johnson & Co., Dixfield. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Jesse Adams of North Stoneham, has shot two deer, one of them being very large.

Eva McAllister of North Waterford, visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sawyer a few days recently.

We have had some of the coldest weather in October that our oldest inhabitants can remember. Several cold frosty nights, followed by a rain Saturday night and Sunday, filling up the brooks and wells to the high water mark.

J. C. Sawyer is quite lame with rheumatism.

You can't be well if you have a weak unhealthy, tired out stomach. Neither can you feel good if by some little irregularity in eating you have caused the stomach to get out of order. These little stomach troubles are signs of indigestion, which may and very often does turn into a bad case of dyspepsia. Don't allow this to go on a single day without doing something to overcome it. Take some good reliable and safe digestant like KODOL For Dyspepsia. KODOL is the best remedy known today for heart burn, belching and all troubles arising from a disordered digestion. It is pleasant to take and affords relief promptly. Sold by Bowers and Vallee.

Miss Susan Bartlett entertained at dinner Friday of last week, Mrs. Delphina Root, Mrs. Mary Greenleaf and Mrs. Emily Knight.

Mrs. Sarah E. Putnam spent Sunday with friends in Portland.

The revived and revised Portland Transcript makes a creditable appearance, and in make up is far superior to the Transcript of old. The leading features follow the lines of the original paper, and seemingly aims to be a rejuvenation of the favorite family journal of Maine. Berthie F. Athorne is editor.

Our offer of the use of our columns to any of the principle enforcement advocates in which to refute the charges of the hypocrisy made against them by the Lisbon Enterprise has not been availed of. Gentlemen, we wish we could do more for you, and are sorry you do not feel able to do something for yourselves.

On the surface of things it looks as though County Attorney Connolly of Cumberland County had got Judge Hill of the municipal court in very unpleasant quarters. But on the other hand, Connolly will find himself very unpopular if he tries to apply and enforce the same rule against both the man, with, and the man without a pull.

In different parts of the New England States the cultivation of ginseng is becoming a lucrative business. As the root is easily grown and has a sure market it seems as though the business might be profitable for Oxford County farmers. A drug that has an almost unlimited demand in pharmacopoeia work of oriental countries is extracted from this root. The greater part of the supply is obtained in this country.

The fact that Maine is developing rapidly, and without grand stand playing, along the manufacturing lines is very encouraging. The development in northern Penobscot and Aroostook counties is noticeable. Millinocket has been growing rapidly, and now Van Buren is coming forward with a promised—really assured—manufacturing plant that will make it a rival to the former place. Rumford Falls, however, can boast of leading all other places in the State for maintained growth and prosperity.

"The Lewiston Journal refers to the Bridgton News as 'The Bridgton monstrosity,' and all because Major Shorey is not gullible enough to swallow the Journal's 'plebescite' substitute for resubmission. The Journal is apt to get real offended with such of its exchanges as can tell which shell it places the pea under when it is engaged in one of its political slight of hand performances.—Waterville Sentinel.

To call a newspaper a "monstrosity" is a horrible thing at best, but to characterize an honest and plain spoken paper like the News, is hardly in keeping with the character of the Lewiston Journal; and that paper ought to apologize.

HOODLUMS AND ALIENS.

It is noted as a fortunate thing that Secretary Taft got away from Japan the other day, just in time to escape having to explain the latest encounter between a San Francisco hoodlum and a Japanese quick lunch proprietor.—Bridgton Journal.

Yet even a San Francisco hoodlum is better than a Japanese lunch counter proprietor; the former is an American citizen, the latter is not.—Portland Chronicle.

The idea that a native hoodlum, however depraved he may be, is better than an alien, however industrious and law-abiding, is a rather dangerous doctrine to preach in a land where decency is entitled to pass current at its face value. The Portsmouth Chronicle ought to be ashamed to put forth such a sentiment, and the Biddeford Journal is to be praised for controverting the idea.

FIRE THURSDAY EVENING OCT. 31.

The fire last Thursday night at about 7:30 o'clock was in a tenement on Lochness road in the Park, No. 33. It caught from an overheated furnace, and was under considerable headway when the alarm was rung in. By good luck two members of the fire department, Walter Chadwick and Hoseman Walker, were in the Park and they went at once to the scene and by energetic work got the flames under control before the department arrived.

There was about $50. damage done to the building and some to the furniture. Thomas Thompson lives in the tenement. There were two children ill with diphtheria in the house. The fire did not disturb them as it was confined to the first floor.

WALDO STREET CESS POOL.

The CITIZEN has been informed that the Board of Health had notified the sextonmen two weeks or more, before we printed the article about the cess pool on Waldo street, that it was a nuisance and should be abated.

We learn that the sewer is to be laid in that section and connected with the school house and dwellings on Hancock street. That will do away with the cess pool. It is expected that the work will be done at once. If not the cess pool should be filled up and the drainage allowed to go free. It can be covered with sand and rendered harmless, if it fails to be taken care of by the earth upon which it flows.

BAPTIST CHURCH WILL BE FINISHED NEXT SUMMER.

Monday the building committee of the Baptist church met a committee of prominent Baptists from different parts of the State and we were promised sufficient aid to guarantee the local committee in saying that the church will be finished within a year.

The committee from out of town consisted of Mr. H. M. Maling of Portland, representative of the State Baptist Denomination, Rev. J. B. Mower of Waterville, and Rev. Dr. Crane of Lewiston.

There is nothing better for stomach troubles than KODOL which contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. KODOL is offered on a guaranteed plan for the relief of the heart burn, flatulence, sour stomach, belching of gas, nausea, and all stomach troubles. So at times when you don't feel just right, when you are drowsy after meals, and your head aches or when you have no ambition, and you are cross and irritable, take a little KODOL. It digests what you eat. It will make you healthy. Sold by Bowers and Vallee.

WHAT'S THE CAUSE?

The automobilists of Rumford Falls are greatly puzzled over the fact that they have great difficulty in running their machines up the rise on Knox St., near Franklin.

It is a slight, and even piece of ground, not high enough to be called a hill, even in a plain country, yet very few machines ascend the rise easily and many come to a full stop in front of M. W. Sander's house, opposite which all the trouble seems to occur.

The rising ground cannot be wholly responsible for it, for machines that go easily up steep hills come to a dead stand still there.

This peculiarity has been noticed for a long while, but no explanation has been made.

RELICS OF JACKSONIAN CAMPAIGN.

Tuesday, T. B. Stevens of Bryant's Pond brought to the CITIZEN office a "coin" that he found while digging a sewer drain in Woodstock Sunday. The "coin" was three feet under ground.

It had not been used much for all the inscriptions were plainly readable. It bore no date but from the inscriptions and devices stamped on it the editor concluded it to be one of the "coins" that were struck off to convey some political idea in one of the Jacksonian campaigns.

On one side was a Basso Relievo, representing (probably) Jackson in the White House with a sword in his hand. The reading was "I take the responsibility." On the other side the Basso Relievo was a mule, over the impression in small letters, were these words, "Roman Firmness." Surrounding the center were these words, "The constitution as I understand it."

If we have correctly interpreted the meaning, the "coin" was issued by the enemies of Jackson who wished to convey the impression that the general would rule with the sword, and that his much banked upon firmness was merely stubbornness, as symbolized by the mule.

It may not be generally understood now that Jackson was held up by his opponents as the most desperate and unprincipled wretch that ever lived. Some of the printed attacks upon him were almost blood curdling.

The finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. You don't have to boil it twenty or thirty minutes. "Made in a minute" says the Doctor. "Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. Not a grain of real coffee is in it either. Health Coffee Imitation is made from pure toasted cereals or grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—were he unknowingly to drink it for coffee. The Red Cross Pharmacy.

DREAMER.

THE DREAM THAT THE DREAMER DREAMED THAT HE DREAMED.

Scene—Rumford Falls, Maine.
TIME—(In the dream) 1912. Real time 1907.

NOTE—Begun in the CITIZEN Oct. 24. Back numbers supplied at the CITIZEN Office or at news stands.

Part Second.

About seven o'clock the Dreamer thought he would venture out on the street and see if things had assumed a normal appearance, or to put it the other way around, to see if his brain had not shaken off the hallucination that he had half concluded was the basis of the whole trouble.

He went out and while standing on the corner of Hartford and Congress streets, gazing across at McDonald's drug store which, much to his surprise, had a front all the way round; that is, great plate glass windows and doors faced the lane that goes down River street. Many persons were passing down the lane.

Before the Dreamer had time to reflect upon this remarkable circumstance, he felt a heavy hand upon his shoulder and a voice say, "If you block up the sidewalk I shall have to pull you in." The Dreamer looked up in a dazed way, and much to his relief beheld the smiling face of officer Frank Brooks. Mr. Brooks held out and continued, "A beauty, isn't she? You must go over and look her over."

The Dreamer, never having heard the officer speak of women in that style, was quite surprised; and more so, when he saw a fine appearing woman pass along on the opposite side of the street. Finding it necessary to say something, the Dreamer said, "She does look well, who is she?" "Who?" Said Brooks. "Why isn't that the woman you meant?" Said the Dreamer, directing attention to the one that had just passed. "Woman nothing; I did not see her, don't know her. You must have gone daffy. I was talking about our new police station. What's the matter with you?" replied the officer. "That's what I am trying to find out," sighed the Dreamer as he moved on. As he passed along the street he reflected that Brooks had been thinking so much about a new police station that he really thought a new one had been built.

The wind was blowing quite a gale, and the Dreamer noticed that the familiar creaking sounds that make Congress street seem, in a high wind, like a chorus of truck wagons without all on their axles, was absent; and looking up, was almost convinced that he had suddenly become blind, for not a swinging sign was to be seen on the street. As his ears corroborated the evidence of his eyes, he concluded the Merchant's Association had "appointed a committee."

As he turned the corner onto Exchange street and stepped into Pete Morrill's lunch room and ordered a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee, Pete looked pretty hard at the Dreamer, and finally said, "You haven't been around lately I guess." The Dreamer was about to say, "Why I was in yesterday or the day before," but was interrupted by the entrance of Deputy Sheriff Elliott.

As the deputy took a seat at the counter, Pete looked meaningfully at the Dreamer and said in a smothered tone, "Don't ask for coffee, for God's sake." The deputy nodded to the Dreamer and really seemed pleased to see him. "Anything doing?" said the Dreamer. "Well," responded the deputy, "since the new law prohibiting the sale of coffee went into effect, we've been pretty busy."

The Dreamer was quite taken back, for he had never known Mr. Elliott to indulge in facetious remarks. But bearing in mind what Pete had said, the Dreamer thought it best to keep quiet. As Pete served the sandwich, he inquired in the stereotyped cafe style, "Aqueduct or spring water?" "No water," replied the Dreamer. The deputy called for a glass of aqueduct water and a doughnut, which he finished before the Dreamer had started on the sandwich.

After he had gone out Pete said, "pretty dry eating, isn't it? Sorry I can't serve you any coffee. The officers are looking after the restaurants pretty close. I tried serving three per cent. stuff, but it was so poor that every one kicked, and I cut it out." And then that fellow on the other street, who thought he was putting out 3 per cent. coffee got hauled in and—" "You don't mean to say that they put him in jail for selling coffee?" "Oh no, they do not impose jail sentences here since Johnson went away; they just fined him $50. and costs." The Dreamer was pretty nearly at the limit of endurance. Here was a new law that he had never heard of, and he not only felt ashamed but somewhat indignant, to think such a thing should have escaped his attention.

He resolved to look up the law and started for Lucian Blanchard's office with that purpose in view. When passing the American Realty Co's. office, he saw a light there and thought he would go in and see if Mr. Pettengill was there, and learn something about the matter from the chairman of the Sturgis Commission. When he opened the door he was pleased to see not only Mr. Pettengill but Mr. Charles A. Mixer. Mr. Pettengill greeted the Dreamer in his well known affable manner, and so did Mr. Mixer, after his well known style.

"I suppose you are going up and help the Baptists celebrate to-night," said Mr. Pettengill to the Dreamer. "Why I hadn't thought about it," fended the Dreamer. "Oh, you had better go up, they do not dedicate a church every day," replied Mr. Pettengill. "Have you been in to see the church since it was finished?" asked Mr. Mixer. "No, I have not but shall have to," observed the Dreamer, not wishing to show his ignorance in the matter, although how the church could have been completed, he did not know. "John D. Rockefeller's gift just put them on their feet," said Mr. Pettengill. That remark of course gave the Dreamer a cue, and he then said to Mr. Mixer, "I suppose this occasion is a pleasant one for you." "It certainly is," replied Mr. Mixer, and a radiant smile illumined the face of the Power Company's agent.

The Dreamer almost awoke, but thought better of it, and turning to Mr. Pettengill said, "Are the Sturgis men doing anything to suppress the coffee traffic?" The Dreamer put this question with the idea of bringing out a little information about the new law, without making it apparent that that was his object. "Oh," replied Mr. Pettengill, "I have not interested myself much in the matter since I resigned." At least that was what the Dreamer understood him to say—(the reader

Gives a Simple Prescription.

Tells the Readers of This Paper How To Prepare the Mixture at Home.

SHAKE IN A BOTTLE.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and tells also what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Sarsaparilla, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which are caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

are so because they are particular. How often you hear some say, "Oh, I haven't the time to look around to see where I can get the best!" Such men and women are not often reckoned among our thriftiest people. Thrifty people buy good qualities at the lowest prices. They know where to get them--they have studied the situation--THEY KNOW!

Thrifty people read advertisements--thrifty people compare qualities--thrifty people discriminate between the ordinary and the excellent. Qualities are decided for you by those of long experience in taking advantage of the market, those who know and buy the best when they see it. Prices are adjusted by accurate system that ensures fairness to us both.

THRIFTY PEOPLE TRADE AT DAY'S Because they know that Day's advertisements are backed up with excellent service and best possible values. They know that DAY'S is a household word, and with it is firmly established FAIRNESS--QUALITY--LOW PRICES. A house of economy for thrifty people.

Here styles are the latest--variety the largest. Don't take our word--ask your thrifty neighbor.

A Store is a mutual establishment in its relations to both customer and owner. The larger the trade the cheaper we are able to sell to you and still have a greater net profit. You can help yourself by bringing us customers as well as helping us--and it is worth while.

You'll not See For a Long Time Embroideries so Low Priced as now.

Heavy buying last year protected you. But what about them when we have to buy again in January? Qualities will be poorer, prices higher.

Can't you tell now about what you need for winter sewing? If you can, you can save money like your neighbor--who is fore hand--by selecting now.

Thousands of Yards Here--and you may thank your "lucky stars" that you can buy them for a mere fraction of your dollar.

A MONEY PANIC is on here at Day's. not one that is disastrous, however. We are celebrating that's all, and the crowd is a little panicky over the dollars they are saving. They know our bargains are always real, and even goods not advertised as specials for this great event they find to be marvelous qualities for these days of high prices.

THIS PAGE A REMINDER of the bargains found here any day. But look out--don't miss your chance--we can't always keep prices down--Buy now and be sure it won't be long before we will have to pay more. Prints have already taken another rise. We are selling for 8 cents what should be 9 cents. We have table linen for 75 cents that should be 87 or 98 cents. We have linen at a $1.00 worth $1.25. We have blankets and puffs at money saving prices. We have silks and ribbons at prices lower than current market figures. Our dress goods are old qualities at ONE LOWEST PRICE. Important Values in Dress Goods Not Attainable Elsewhere.

The quality--the shades--the widths--the finish--the texture--show extreme care in selecting. The prices tell a story of low price--making more noticeable here than in most stores.

Then, too, women like style and they want the latest fabrics attainable. Our method of going to market often and knowing the latest has won for this department a warm place in the hearts of stylish dressers.

FRIDAY, THE 13th

Thomas W. Lawton

game, was the one who did the trick. Long suffering had driven the old gambler to the loser's table, Philosophy! Cheated by man's device, he knew he had some chance of getting even; but Fate he could not combat.

Bob Browney had thought himself in hard luck when his eyes opened to the fact that he had been robbed by means of dice loaded by man, but when Fate pressed the button he saw that his man-made hell was but a feeble imitation, and—was satisfied; as whoever knows the game of life is satisfied, because—he must be. Bob's strong head bowed, his iron will bent, and meekly his soul murmured: "They will be done."

That night he married Beulah Sands. The minister who united the grown-up man and the woman who was as a new-born babe saw nothing extraordinary in the match. He murmured to me, who acted as best man to the groom, maid of honor to the bride, and father and mother to both: "We see strange sights, we ministers of the great city, Mr. Randolph. The sweet little lady appears to be a trifle scared." My explanation that she and Mr. Browney were the awful survivors of the awful tragedies of yesterday was sufficient. He was satisfied when he got no other response to his question: "Do you take this man to be your wedded husband?" than a sweet childish smile as she snuggled closer to Bob.

Bob and his bride went south to his mother and sisters the next day. He left to me the settlement of his trades. He instructed me to set aside $3,000,000 profits for Beulah Sands-Browney, and insisted that I pay from the balance the notes he had given me a few weeks before. There remained something over $5,000,000 for himself.

The leading Wall street paper, in its preaching on the panic, wound up with:

"Wall street has lived through many black Fridays. Some of them have been thirteen-of-the-month Fridays, but no Friday yet marked from the calendar, no Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday yet garnered to the storehouse of the panic was ever more jubilantly welcomed by his Satanic Majesty than yesterday. We pray Heaven no coming day may be ordained to go against yesterday's record for lightning cruelty and awful destruction. It is rumored that Mr. Browney of Randolph and Randolph, either for himself or his clients cleared $25,000,000 of profit. We believe that this estimate is low. The losses coming through Robert Browney's terrible onslaught must have run over $200,000,000. Wall street and the country will do well to take the moral of yesterday's market to their hearts. It is this: The concentration of wealth in the hands of a few Americans is a menace to our financial structure. It is the unanimous opinion of the Street that Robert Browney could never have succeeded in battering down the price of sugar in the very teeth of the Standard Oil support."

"Yesterday, without a cash backing of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000, a large congregation of money owners deliberately place themselves behind an onslaught such as was so successfully made yesterday, why that slaughter not be repeated at any time, on any stock, and against the support of any backing?"

When I read this and listened to talk along the same lines, I was puzzled. I could not for the life of me see where Bob Browney could have got five to ten millions' backing for such a raid, much less fifty to a hundred. Yet I was forced to confess that he must have had some tremendous backing; else how could he have done what I had seen him do?

Bob left his wife at his mother's house while he went to Sand Landing to the funeral. After the old judge and his victims had been laid away and the relatives had gathered in the library of the great white Sands mansion, he explained their kinswoman's condition and told them that she was his wife. He insisted upon paying all Judge Sands' debts, over $500,000 of which was owed to members of the Sands family for whom he had been trustee. Before he went back to his mother's, Bob had turned a great calamity into an occasion for something near rejoicing. Judge Sands and his family were very dear to the people of the section, but his misfortune had threatened such widespread ruin that the unlocked-for recovery of a million and a half was a godsend that made for happiness.

Two days after the funeral Bob's dearest hope fled. He had ordered all things at the Sands plantation put in their everyday condition. Beulah Sands, uncles, aunts and cousins had arranged to welcome her and to try by every means in their power to coax her lost mind. They assured Bob that that barring the absence of F. Beulah's father, mother, and sister there would not be a memory-recalling missing. Bob and his wife landed from the river packet at the foot of the driveway, which led straight from the landing to the vine-covered, white-pillared portico. Bob's agony must have been awful when his wife clasped her hands in childish joy as she exclaimed, "Oh, Bob, what a pretty place!" She gave no sign that she had ever seen the great entrance, through which she had come and gone from her babyhood. Bob took her to the library, to her mother's room, to her own, to the nursery where were dolls and toys of her childhood hands. As I stood for the first time in the middle of Bob's handwork, I seemed to hear again those awful groans.

"Jim," Bob said, "I have a haunting idea that some day Beulah will wake and look around and think she has been but a few minutes asleep. If she should, she must have nothing to disabuse her mind until we break the news to her. I have instructed her nurses, one or the other of whom never loses sight of her night or day, to win her to the habit of spending her time at her old desk; I have told them always to be prepared for her awakening, and when it comes they are instantly to shut off the rest of the floor and house until I can get to her. Here comes Beulah now."

Out of the nursery came a laughing, happy child-woman. In spite of her finely developed, womanly figure, which had lost nothing of its wonderful beauty, and the exquisite face and golden-brown hair and great blue eyes, which were as fascinating as on the day she first entered the office of Randolph & Randolph; in spite of the close-fitting gray gown with dainty turned-over lace collar, I could hardly bring myself to believe that she was anything but a young child. With an eager look and a happy laugh she went to Bob and throwing her arms about his neck, covered his face with kisses.

"Good Bob has come back to play with Beulah," she said, "she knew he would. They told Beulah Bob had gone away to the woods to gather pretty flowers. Beulah knew if Bob had gone to the woods he would have taken Beulah with him. Now Bob must play school with Beulah." She sat at her desk and opened her child's school-book. With mock severity she said, "Bob, cat. What does it spell?" For half an hour Bob sat and played scholar and teacher by turns with all the patience of a fond father. With difficulty I kept back the tears the sad sight brought to my eyes.

For the first year of Bob's marriage we saw but little of him at the office. The Exchange saw less. He had wandered in upon the floor two or three times, but did no business and seemed to take but little interest.

"The Street" knew Bob had married the daughter of Judge Lee Sands, the victim of Tom Reinhart's cold-blooded Seaboard Air Line deal. Otherwise it knew nothing of the affair. His friends never met his wife. Occasionally they would pass the Brownley carriage on the avenue or in the park and, taking it for granted that the beautiful woman was Mrs. Brownley, they thought Bob a lucky fellow. It seemed quite natural that his wife should choose seclusion after the aw-

"Good Bob Has Come Back to Play with Beulah."

A sedate luxury pervaded the drawing-rooms, library, and dining-room. Bob said to me, in taking me through them, "Some day, Jim, Beulah may recover, may come back to me, and I want to have everything as she would wish, everything as she would have had it if the curse had never come." The third floor was Beulah's. A child's dainty bedroom; two nurses' rooms adjoining; a nursery, with a child's small schoolroom and a big playroom, with dolls and doll houses, child's toys of every description in abundance, as though their owner were in fact but a few years old. Across the hall were three offices, exact duplicates of mine, Bob's, and Beulah Sands' at Randolph & Randolph's. When I first saw them it was with difficulty that I brought myself to realize that I was not where the gruesome happenings of a year before had taken place. Bob had reproduced to the minutest details our downtown workshop. Standing in the door of Beulah Sands' office I faced the flat desk at which she had sat the afternoon when I first saw that hideous result of the work of the "System." I could almost see the little gray figure holding the afternoon paper. In horror my eyes sought the floor at the side of the chair in search of Bob's agonized face and uplifted ful tragedy at her home in Virginia. But they could not understand why, with such cause for mourning, the exquisite figure beside Bob in the victoria should always be garbed in gray. After a while it was whispered that there was something wrong in Bob's household. Then his friends and acquaintances ceased to whisper or to think of his affairs. With all New York's bad points—and they are as plentiful as her church spires and charity bazaars—she has one offsetting virtue. It is a dweller in her midst chooses to let New York alone. New York is willing to reciprocate. In her most crowded fashionable districts a person may come and go for a lifetime, and none in the block in which he dwells will know when his coming and going ceases. When a New Yorker reads in his newspaper of the man who lives next door to him, "murdered and his body discovered by the gas man" or the tax collector, the butcher or the baker, as the case may be, he never thinks he may have been remiss in his neighborly duties.

The Halloween Party held last Thursday night in McMenamin Hall was very enjoyable affair and reflects great credit on the committee in charge of the arrangement of the fete. The decorations were decidedly unique and grotesque and the refreshments were very appropriate to the occasion. Games were played, fortunes read and the merry-makers tried their fates by all the mystical rites of Halloween. Dancing was also enjoyed, music being furnished by a local orchestra. About sixty young people participated in this evening of informal fun.
